

Presenting/Teaching

Journeyman Course point sheet.

Required: Presentation (beekeepers), teach beekeeping class, Create materials for education. Publish your material.

Optional: Presentation (non- beekeeper), one-on-one instruction, work fair or booth, assist youth group (4H, FFA ...), write article to publish, present or write history of beekeeping, host field day or instruction in apiary

Teaching or presenting material helps people learn material better but can be a bit intimidating for some. Use the tip paper listed below. This should be a fun experience for you and who you are working with. Dig into your research on topic and designing material you wish to use. This is your real growth area.

Team teaching is fun but harder to coordinate. Work with more advanced or beekeepers with a different thought process. It will make a better, more balanced product.

Attached: Public Speaking Tips

Educational Growth Opportunity:

- Teach how to do presentations to beekeepers. Presentation can include handouts, PowerPoint, and hands-on demonstrations.
- Research how to present or teach.
- Share/present research you find to another journeyman.
- Organize booth materials.

Recommendations (people, books, online): ‘The Bee Book’ apprentice WMB.
(internet)

Note:

Washington Master Beekeepers - Journeyman – “Presenting & Teaching” - 2022 Debra Langley-Boyer, Jerry Tate, Andy Matelich & Paul Longwell